Conditions at Sea

Tired: What were we thinking? Leaving our comfortable, warm beds for this voyage?

Cranky: Who are you kidding? Comfortable bed. You came off the cement floor of His Highness's dungeon.

Brave: Well at least he didn't have rats nibbling at his feet.

Nervous: We're just lucky this fragile piece of junk has not been dashed to pieces against the rocks.

Scared: I don't believe we have even enough drinking water for this crew

Tired: Enough water? What about food?

Cranky: At least we can find something on board.....an old biscuit or piece of bacon.

Brave: That 's right. You're still looking rather plump, I must say. Ha Ha Ha

Nervous: Well if we don't sail off the edge of the world pretty soon.....

Scared: We'll be eaten by a serpent! They swallow the ship whole and no one lives to tell that we ever existed.

Tired: Pick your poison, men. That thar scurvy will take us all out in a fortnight anyway.

Cranky: Mutiny, I say! Why are we living in this?

Brave: Land Ho! Look ahead.

Nervous: We made it just in time. Now, we just have to watch out for the cannibals!

Scared: Cannibals won't bother me after this trip. Let's go kiss that solid ground and find some fresh water.

Tired: You really are thirsty!

Scared: No, You guys need a bath!

All but Scared: Look who's talking!!

World Travelers

Reporter: Here they come now folks, after their whirlwind trip around the world in 80 months! Excuse me, can you tell us about it?

Waldo: We'll be publishing our travel journal shortly, but we have seen more of the world than anyone in history.

Travel Buff: The good old USA is still the best in my book.

Reporter: Well you must have seen magnificent scenery and monuments.

Waldo: Oh yes, the Alps, the castles, the cultures; we did it all

Travel Buff: The Rocky Mountains and the Statue of Liberty are still my favorite.

Reporter: What about the cuisine. The food must have been to die for?

Waldo: Ah Oui! We dined with world-renowned chefs in every city.

Travel Buff: I just wanted a Dodger dog and a root beer float.

Reporter: Hmm! So you liked your trip (looks to Waldo) but you'd really rather be (looks to Travel Buff)

Travel Buff: Back in the USA!!!!
